3,000 students

Confucius created Confucianism and educated about 3,000 students in his lifetime.

Confucianism is the largest Chinese school of thought and the mainstream consciousness of ancient China.

Leaders in China and other Asian districts constantly learn and utilize the values in what Confucius used to say – even businessmen share his teachings within organizations.

Trustworthiness Wisdom Propriety Righteousness Benevolence

Confucius stressed the importance of benevolence, righteousness, propriety, wisdom and trustworthiness. Also include duty and order in society.

We could inherit from Confucianism's core to love humanity, to respect elders, love learning, honest and maintain self-discipline.

A further follow-up is how we could improve society as Confucius's lifelong effort to education?

Coincidence

Similar to the name of Kong Qiu, I also have 'Qiu' as my given name because my birthday is exactly the same as Confucius's.

Wish you like this book as I do.
